

AYA Cancer Network Aotearoa Consumer Information Sheet

Every year around 190 Adolescent and Young Adults (AYAs) will hear the words 'you have cancer'. There is never a good time to be diagnosed with cancer but it can be particularly challenging for young people. That's why there are dedicated supports in place especially for AYAs and their whānau.

The AYA Cancer Network Aotearoa was established in 2013 to make sure that young people across the country have the very best cancer care available. The Network employs a small team of professionals to drive improvements in cancer services for AYAs. The Network is contracted by Te Aho o Te Kahu (The Cancer Control Agency) to undertake this leadership role.

The AYA Cancer Network's monitoring role

Part of the Network's role is to monitor the delivery of cancer and supportive care services for young people across the country. We do this by accessing information about you and your cancer diagnosis through the New Zealand Cancer Registry and your hospital electronic records.

The Network uses this information to monitor your cancer care – making sure that you are referred to the right health care team to receive the right care at the right time. Monitoring also gives us a greater understanding of the care and treatments received by AYAs as a group. This helps us to make improvements for young people in the future.

We are telling you this because you have the right to know who has access to your health information. Just like your treating hospital or medical practice, we follow strict rules around who can access your information, how it is stored, and what it can be used for. If you or your whānau have any questions about this, please contact us at AYACancer@adhb.govt.nz

Contact from the Network

Most of what we do is behind the scenes. It's your healthcare team who you will have the most contact with during your cancer treatment. But we would like to be able to contact you occasionally by text or email if you are happy for us to do so. If you are under 16 we'll contact you via your parent or caregiver.

Some reasons why we might get in touch

If you don't want to hear from us then simply email us at AYACancer@adhb.govt.nz, or text/phone us on 021 337 129. We will remove your contact details from our distribution list. You can do this at any time and your decision will not affect your healthcare in any way.

A final message from us:

A cancer diagnosis can trigger big feelings and worries. It's important to remember that most young people with cancer are treated successfully and get better. There are many supports available for young people who are undergoing cancer treatment. Please talk to your healthcare team, AYA Cancer Key Worker, or visit ayacancernetwork.org.nz to find out more about what help is available for you and your whānau.

Kia kaha.
